 - Understanding HIV risks to trans women and barriers to care
- Invitation for members of workgroup to submit to interviews if they see a large number of patients that are trans women
- Kelsen Caldwell handed out recruitment materials to interested members to place in their facilities
- Current challenges facing the project
 - Finding a safe location to conduct surveys
 - Maintaining integrity of data

CREATING AN INCLUSIVE ENVIRONMENT

Ginny Weir, Bree Collaborative, MPH, asked for comments on the reading materials Focus on Forms and Policy: Creating an Inclusive Environment for LGBT Patients and the group discussed:

• The use of the "Recommended Update" to language with reference to family

- Making space on forms for Inclusion of family beyond biological or legal roles
- How the use of "sexual orientation" on a form may be misleading since it may not provide accurate information providers are seeking
 - o Question provides information on identity and not behavior
- Incorporating sexual history questions on a registration form may be off-putting
 - o Promoting use of self-administered data collection
- Possibility of forms pointing provider in the wrong direction in terms of preferred pronouns or gender identity
 - Kevin Wang, MD, Swedish Family Medicine, explained the use in his clinic of the cue card method to prevent misgendering
 - Cards are placed at the front desk that patients voluntarily fill out with their name and preferred pronouns
 - o Could be made an easily available online resource for health care providers

DEFINING SCOPE AND FOCUS AREAS

The workgroup reviewed Asking Essential Sexual Health Questions and discussed:

- Making both recommendations for both written (questionnaires) and verbal (in-person) conversations
 - Verbal conversation allows for more open ended questioning
- The group will be making minimum standards for a sexual history survey
- Not asking binary gender questions
- Including a gender component in sexual history questions can add to complexity and confusion
 - o Rather than gender identification, using anatomical language to identify both the patient and their sexual partner(s)

Action Item: Group will send their recommendations of best language used/heard by them in sexual history queries

- Group debated whether making recommendations to ask about general sexual health concerns is included in the scope of the charter
 - May reduce the stigma of talking to a healthcare provider about sex
 - o May go beyond the scope of the charter
- Including intimate partner violence in questions

Reviewed King County's Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis (PrEP) Implementation Guidelines 2015 and HIV testing and STD screening recommendations for MSM and the group discussed:

- Number of sex partners within an agreed upon framework should mandate testing
- Patients with greater than 10 sex partners in a year should be tested every 3 months
- Asking sexual history questions regardless of relationship status
- Kiosk use for sensitive questions
- Inclusion of substance abuse screenings
 - o Specifically meth, alkyl nitrate use for MSM
 - Independent risk factors for HIV acquisition
 - Separate questions for the separate substances, not a combined question
- Whether to endorse existing recommendations (King County or CDC)
 - King County guidelines are more explicit than CDC
 - CDC guideless do not include guidelines that specify whether partner is virologically suppressed

- Need to frame recommendations as more specific implementation of, rather than divergence from, CDC recommendations
- Medical databases as a barrier
 - o Responses would need to be built into databases
 - Whether SOJI questions will be built into future EMRs
- Possible barriers in the health plan systems
 - o Mismatches to natal gender with current health needs
 - Access to medical providers that can provide transition procedures
 - Viewing transition procedures as life-saving procedures
 - Including language directed at health plan providers to accommodate trans patients

Action Item: Ginny Weir will bring a draft of the sexual health/history screening

- Gap in recommendations for women who have sex with women
- Possible health risks for WSW and bisexual women
 - Missed pap smears
 - o Substance abuse
 - Sexual network that includes MSM that may expose them to greater risks
 - Overweight and obesity
- The group will discuss recommendations for WSW and bisexual women at a later date

Dr. Lessler and Ms. Weir thanked all for attending and asked for final comments and public comments. The meeting adjourned.
